

The Southwest Indian Ocean

- and the slave trade

5 & 6 December, Basler Afrika Bibliographien, 23 Klosterberg

Keynote 14:00-15:00h David Eltis: www.slavevoyages.org: some broader implications

5 December

15:00-15:50

Didier Nativel:

Historiographies and Memories of Slave Trade and Slavery in Madagascar and the Mascarene Islands (1960s-2014)

16:20-17:10

Rafaël Thiébaud:

A quantitative approach to the Madagascan slave trade undertaken by the VOC and the Compagnie des Indes (17th-18th centuries)

17:10-18:00

Michael Reidy:

Captive experience aboard VOC slave ships during the Indian Ocean Middle Passage in the 18th century

6 December

9:00-9:50

Klara Boyer-Rossol:

The West Coast of Madagascar: a hub for the traffic in slaves in the Western Indian Ocean. Years 1840-1890

9:50-10:40

Samuel Sanchez:

Providing indentured labourers to French colonies. The role of the slavers' networks in the Mozambique channel 1840-1896

11:10-12:00

Luis Antunes:

When South American trading ships «suffered losses»: the first attempts of systematic slave trade between Brazil and Mozambique (1750-1800)

12:00-12:50

Patrick Harries:

The Role of the Cape of Good Hope in the Organisation and Development of the Slave Trade from Mozambique, c.1797-1824

13:10-14:00

Preben Kaarsholm:

Sufi Islam and Amakhuwa Networks between Northern Mozambique, Maputo and Durban